Welcome message

We are going to rewrite our welcome messages. Here are the written expectations you have been given.

Welcome message – One paragraph

- Who are you?
- What is the purpose of this portfolio?
- How does it demonstrate what you have learned or what you are capable of producing for a client?

Activity: Please type this out and then share it with a partner. Be prepared to read it out loud to the class.

Project Description

We are going to practice writing project descriptions. Here are the written expectations you have been given.

“Create the following pages and fill them with examples of work that include a description and a completion date.”

I plan to add the following details. “Your description should include how the project demonstrates new things that you have learned by completing the project or skills that you have mastered.”

Activity: Please type this out and then share it with a partner. Be prepared to read it out loud to the class.
